October 21, 2013

Tadeo Jones is a fearless explorer who presents bite size insights on science and technology to children of all ages in a cartoon program appearing on Telecinco. FECYT, the Spanish Foundation for Science and Technology, initiated collaboration with Telecinco to introduce work being conducted at research centers around the country to young audiences in a fun but factual format.

This weekend, Tadeo "visited" ICFO and learned about the exciting properties and the potential of graphene.
